Aziz Hassim: Novelist who captured life in the Casbah

He explored the underworld of criminals, prostitutes and hustlers

Hassim, principally based on the stories about life that took shape around the drug trade, prostitution, brothels and bars on the streets of the Casbah.

He also wrote "The Last Chance" and "The Age of Innocence" in English.

Molly Clutton-Brock: Campaigner for racial justice

As a result of a decision in a recent case, she is now living in the Casbah.

Doug Engelbart: Inventor of the computer mouse

Engelbart, who died last week, was a pioneer in computer technology who founded the first computer mouse. He was a key figure in the development of the modern computer mouse.